

BEGINNINGS

We're not talking about the food. Not yet. We're talking about the original cafe up there, the guys who started it all back in 1971, the guys who first set the standard for the food. But nothing less than the finest in American diner food -- with a Southern accent (because one of the guys came from Tennessee). And they may have been a couple of wildeyed young rockers, but they were serious about food. Serious about the freshest ingredients and about meals made from scratch. And so today in the kitchen of every Hard Rock around the world there's a chef slicing, dicing, chopping and cooking it himself, proud to be living up to what they started.
